Teaching Kindness is Essential.

When children don't feel welcomed, included, and physically and emotionally safe, they won't be able to learn. I'm Nicole Black and I create resources to help create a classroom community, to limit bullying behaviors, and to intentionally help kids speak and act with kindness more often.

Kindness can be taught. This resource will help you do it.

Ways to Use This Resource:

1. Print the version you wish to use:
*color or black and white
2. If you use the black and white version, kids can color in the pictures.
3. If you have a student who does not have a dad but has another male figure in their life, choose the second version for them and help them to write in the appropriate name (my uncle, my grandpa, Dan, etc.)
4. Follow up and use the discussion starters to talk more about dads and how we can show them kindness.
5. Kids can write in one of the two writing prompts to show their understanding of the concept. The children who do not have a dad, can fill in the blank at the top of their writing prompts.

I am Kind to My Dad

Discussion Starters:

Why is it important to be kind to your dad?

How can you show kindness to your dad?

How is it kind to your dad when you listen to him? How does that show kindness?

Do you have to give a gift to be kind? What is your favorite gift to give your dad?

“Thank you” is using your manners. What would you want or need to thank your dad for? Are there things he gives you? Are there things he does for you? What other manners can you use with your dad to show him kindness?

How is being helpful to your dad an easy way to be kind to your dad? What is your favorite way to be a helper?

It's important to be kind to my dad
